First, make sure your Remine profile has all of your information as you'd want to see it on your direct mail piece.

Your name, business, and contact information will fill in automatically when you customize your design.

Here's how it works.

Choose a direct mail product by selecting this dropdown.

You have the option of postcards with three different sizes, letters including yellow letters and snap apart mailers.

Just select the type of direct mail you want to send and you'll see your total price calculate here automatically.

Postage is already included in your price.

Then you're ready to design.

Just click to change colors, text, and upload your images and logos.

You'll upload your logo and profile photo only once and it will be there for every piece you design in the future.

You'll see your direct mail piece update with your changes in real time.

Once you approve your design you're ready to send in your Remine label list.

Have questions along the way?
